Death of an Estimable Citizen. It is with feelings of the deepest regret, that we chronicle the death of HENRY ELLIS, Esq., one among the oldest members of the Orange-

Here, at this Bar over twenty five years ago, he commenced his professional career, which, after many trials and difficulties, led to:fame and prosperity. His life was a bright example of kindness, liberality and fidelity. These remarkable characteristics, so rarely met with in one man, coupled with high talents and genlal disposition; endeared him to all who knew him, and won for him an enviable reputation. Kindness and courtesy ever distinguished his intercourse with his professional brethren. Integrity and honor ever distinguished his profriends and the deep regret of a whole community, he has closed a useful life; and to his associates at the Bar, he has left the grateful recollection of his many virtues, the example of his attainments, his unsullied reputation, his unswerving fidelity, his unbounded liberality, his unexampled kindness, and excellent character.

Tony, the Edisto Raftsman.

Those engaged in the timber business know well the experienced pilot, who has conducted many a fleet of lumber and timber to market, down the waters of Edistoes. This week we are called on to chronicle his death. Some time last week, as he was attempting to guide a raft overladen with wood, the raft was submerged in a whirlpool off White Point, and Tony was drowned.

He was formerly a slave of Mr. WILLIAM KNOTTS, of our District, and has been esteem ed as a good and trusty nian by all who knew him, and had the reputation of being one of the best pilots to be found among the raftsmen of our section. We trust, that, though ship wrecked here, his faithful soul has made safe anchorage in a better port on high.

Death, who is to some the king of terrors, is not so to him, who, from the serve estand point of innture life, views tho end of his being with the culturess of the philosopher, and the unfaltering trust of the Christian. Our departed friend, whose name is at the head of this simple tribute of respect; was one who, in the discharge of Christian duty, was a model and exempley of all those virtues which one who, in the discharge of Christian dity, was a model and exemplar of all those virtues which adorn a pions life. For many years a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, he filled official positions to the benefit of the church, and to the cause of that Jesus, whom he so faithfully erred. By a godly walk and conversation, he illustrated the beauty of holiness in hi daily life and of him it could truly be said, "Look upon the just man, and behold the upright; for the end of
